Why TIM?

TIM BPM Suite compared to Appian

Appian - An Overview

Every process automation software has its pros and cons - we want you to know which tool best suits your organisation's needs. In the following overview you will find some facts about Appian's process automation tool and how it differs from the TIM BPM Suite, so that you can decide for yourself which tool best fits your company's requirements.

Key Facts

Product: Appian Platform
Foundation: 1999
of Employees: > 2000
Headquarter: USA
Philosophy: Low Code

Pricing

Price per user/month:	Calculation example (Minimum of 100 Users):
Standard: 75$	50 Standard users: 3,750$ per month
Infrequent: 9$	+ 40 Infrequent users: 360$ per month
Input-Only: 2$	+ 10 Input-only users: 20$ per month
	= Sum: 4,130$ per month

Main Weaknesses

High cost and buy-in:

The software's expensive licensing and implementation fees create significant financial barriers for potential users, deterring many smaller businesses from adopting it.

Reliance on programmers:

Heavy dependence on coding skills restricts accessibility and agility, requiring continual involvement of technical personnel for customization and updates.

Lack of process management approach:

Appian does not support typical process management capabilities, like process landscapes, process portal and process documentation. They are only focussing on automation and mining.

Summary

In conclusion, while Appian offers impressive capabilities, its high cost and buy-in, reliance on programmers, and lack of process management approach pose significant challenges for businesses considering its implementation. Before investing in Appian, organizations must carefully weigh these disadvantages against its benefits to determine if it aligns with their long-term goals and budget constraints.
